Mark McPherson represents individuals, corporations, and universities in government and internal investigations involving healthcare fraud, securities fraud, the False Claims Act, and other civil and criminal matters. He also helps clients manage NIH, HHS, and/or DOJ investigations, enforcement inquiries, and Congressional oversight requests related to systematic programs of foreign influence at U.S. academic and research institutions. This includes leading internal reviews in which allegations of conflicts of interest, undue foreign influence, or federal grants mismanagement have been raised, and helping to resolve material findings with appropriate government agencies.

Mark recently served as a Special Assistant District Attorney with the Suffolk County District Attorney's Office, where he gained significant criminal trial and motion practice experience.

Prior to attending law school, Mark served as a pilot in the United States Air Force.
