Justin Wolosz is a partner in Choate's Complex Trial & Appellate Litigation Group. Justin has nearly two decades of experience as a proven litigator and trial lawyer, who creatively and efficiently helps clients navigate the complexities of sophisticated disputes. His practice focuses on business litigation, including consumer class action and multi-district litigation, as well as novel and complex state-court litigation in the Massachusetts Business Litigation Session and other state courts. Justin's broad experience allows him to counsel his clients effectively through all phases of complex disputes, from pre-litigation negotiations through trial and any appellate proceedings.

Whether he is representing individual clients or Fortune 500 companies, Justin places a high premium on being a true partner to his clients and believes deeply that listening to his clients is just as important as advising them.

Justin has been named a Massachusetts Super Lawyer.
