

Stefano A. Sharma

Associate

T +1 (617) 248-5023 | ssharma@choate.com

Stefano Sharma represents clients of Choate's Litigation Department. He represents a wide array of clients across industries, from multinational biotechnology companies to global reinsurers. Stefano has worked on disputes involving trade secret misappropriation, antitrust laws, employment laws, and the False Claims Act.

During law school, Stefano participated in the Harvard Cyberlaw Clinic, Harvard Prison Legal Assistance Project, and Harvard Transactional Law Clinic. At the Harvard Cyberlaw Clinic, he researched and advised on intellectual property matters in the context of healthcare.

PRACTICE AREAS

Litigation

Life Sciences

REPRESENTATIVE ENGAGEMENTS

- Currently representing global biopharmaceutical company in False Claims Act action.
- Currently representing multinational corporation in its breach of fiduciary duty claims against former high-ranking executives.
- Represented multinational biotechnology company in trade secret misappropriation lawsuit involving RNAi therapeutics.
- Represented a leading corporation in connection with civil antitrust and wage and hour class action.
- Represented international IT services company in breach of contract and trade secret misappropriation claims against a former client and in the related counterclaims.
- Represented leading private institutions of higher education in Department of Justice investigations.
- Assisted in advising on potential antitrust concerns regarding a company's board of directors.
- Prepared and presented regulatory compliance advice to a major healthcare provider's HR and Compliance departments.

PUBLICATIONS AND PRESENTATIONS

- "Evolving No-Poach Landscape Requires a Vigilant Eye," author, Law360, September 2019.
-

EDUCATION

Harvard Law School
JD, 2017
Harvard Negotiation Law Review

University of Florida
BA, 2013

ADMISSIONS

Massachusetts

U.S. District Court,
Massachusetts

PROFESSIONAL AND COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

- Member of the Choate's pro bono program, partnering with the EdLaw Project to directly advocate for the educational needs of low-income children in the Boston area
- Member of the Boston Bar Association