Choate Named a 2026 Massachusetts Lawyers Weekly Legacy Law Firm

For the second year in a row, Choate has been named Legacy Law Firm by Massachusetts Lawyers Weekly. The special feature appears in the June 22, 2026 issue and recognizes long-standing successful Massachusetts law firms that have demonstrated the ability to successfully navigate constantly evolving client needs, legal developments, technology, economic environments, and more.

Massachusetts Lawyers Weekly evaluated the following criteria to compile the 2026 Legacy Law Firms listing: proven success through growth in revenue or employees; received recognition as a best workplace because of employee support programs; maintains a high level of employee morale; and demonstrates strong and consistent community engagement.

For more than 125 years, Choate has been committed to excellence, client service, teamwork, and collaboration. Intentionally different from our competitors, we focus on a core group of strategic areas where we practice at the highest level, within a highly integrated operating model, and with hands-on partner involvement and a balanced approach to serving our clients and training our next generation lawyers.
