Kayo Women in Private Equity Pop-Up Conference Hosted by Choate

On September 28th, Choate hosted the Kayo Conference Series for one of their signature Women in Private Equity Pop-Up programs. The conference brings together leading women in private equity, venture capital, and M&A who are looking to capitalize on strong valuations and back the next generation of entrepreneurs to transform company growth.

Over 70 attendees from firms across Boston gathered to listen and engage with two panels: "Private Equity Funds Outlook," moderated by Kim Kaplan-Gross, delved into the latest trends in fund formation, strategies for identifying the right partners, and advice for effective capital raising throughout cycles; while "Private Equity Deals Outlook," moderated by Sarah Camougis, provided a platform for five influential deal-makers to share their outlook on the industry.
